

62 AW/CC Roll Call

6 November 2014

Team McChord,

A profession is a type of job that requires special education, training, or skill. Our Air Force is indeed a Profession of Arms comprised of various career fields requiring targeted, relevant, and continuous development. Professional organizations like the Logistics Officers Association (LOA), the American Society of Military Comptrollers (ASMC), the Society of Air Force Pharmacy, and countless others serve to promote the growth of our Airmen within their particular functional area. Our partnership with one such organization was reinforced last week as many of you had the opportunity to attend the Airlift/Tanker Association (A/TA) Convention and Mobility Symposium in Nashville, TN. The apt theme, "Air Mobility - Accomplished by Professionals - Skilled and Respected!" was an appropriate reference to professional Airmen such as those of Team McChord. As echoed by some of our most senior AF leaders, it remains quite clear that the commitment to excellence each of you displays is foundational to the success of our Rapid Global Mobility mission. In a complex and uncertain world, you continue to serve our Nation in amazing ways and I'm extremely proud to serve alongside you!

2013 USAF Air Traffic Control
