

Airlift Excellence...Innovative Airmen...Respect For All!

62 AW/CC Roll Call

13 February 2015

Team McChord,

This week, Chief Drake and I had the opportunity to sit down with Team McChord's ALS Class 15-B for a terrific and informative chatback session. Both of us agree that these types of engagements are the highlight of our job. One of the students, a 62 AMXS crew chief, provided me some great feedback on just how meaningful it is when aircraft commanders spend time briefing them on what the aircrew are about to do. One of the things we have asked our aircraft commanders to do when they step to a jet is spend a few minutes with our maintenance Airmen to ensure they have a good grasp of the mission...things like takeoff time, who we're supporting, and what type of mission or training we're doing. You've heard me talking about connecting the dots. The 62 AMXS crew chief reminded me that a great way to connect the dots is to spend a few minutes getting to know our Airmen. Regardless of where you work, as we focus on the importance of a continuum of professionalism in our Air Force, make an impact today and ENGAGE AN AIRMAN!

AF Key Spouse Program

The Air Force Key Spouse Program is an official Air Force unit family readiness program designed to enhance mission readiness, resiliency, and establish a sense of community. It is a commander's initiative that promotes partnerships with unit leadership, families, volunteer Key Spouses, the Service Member and Family Readiness Center, and other agencies. Contact your Commander for more information on your unit's Key Spouse program.
